

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

RECEIVED
CENTRAL FAX CENTER

MAR 08 2007

CLAIM

Claim No. 1 (Currently Amended): I claim modified men's briefs as the "receptacle rim" which is comprised of a circular elastic band sewn into a 100 percent cotton vesture in order to secure said vesture and a condom for competent protection specifically against Phthirus Pubis (crabs), scabies, and H.P.V. (warts), of which the receptacle rim creates a closed system that properly shields its user from the afore mentioned diseases; whereby the receptacle rim fitted around the base of the penis, "as modified men's briefs" secures both Dermawear and the condom so that inherently the stated scope of use in this invention of Dermawear is to specifically and conveniently protect its user from the transmission of Phthirus Pubis, scabies, and warts as detailed in the description.

Claim No. 2 (Currently Amended): I claim the loop defense strands consisting as "modified men's briefs" and comprised of interwoven looped threads and sewn into the face of the garment above the receptacle rim in order to simulate pubic hairs which entangle the diseases of Phthirus Pubis, scabies, and warts (viral R.N.A./D.N.A), so that inherently the stated scope of use in this invention of Dermawear is to specifically and conveniently protect its user from the transmission of Phthirus Pubis, scabies, and warts as detailed in the description.

Claims 3 – 6 (cancelled).

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

~~Independent Claim No. 1 (Currently amended): I claim the use of Dermawear as a wearable garment that will consist of any type of fabric but particularly a 100 percent cotton vesture as a protective apparel during sexual intercourse against epidemic parasites and/or sexually transmitted diseases of the genital skin not protected by a condom. 00013. In chattel, what I claim as my invention is: the "Receptacle Lim" of "Dermawear," which cannot be independent of the subgarment (fabric shield) since the subgarment itself serves as the protective aspect of "Dermawear"; and the "Receptacle Rim" is an outlet for an erect penis.~~

~~00014. What I claim as my invention is: the subgarment made of any type of fabric, but primarily consisting of 100 percent cotton set forth and combined with a "Receptacle Rim," which are dependent components in alliance for one purpose: to protect the male pubic region and scrotal skin from sexually transmitted diseases; and in the nature of this purpose exists "Dermawear," my claim of invention.~~

~~Independent Claim #1:~~

~~00015. "Dermawear" is a pioneering concept, and what I claim as my invention is the "Receptacle Rim" and its shielding subgarment made of any type of material (polyester, rayon, tweed, etc.), but primarily consisting of 100 percent cotton.~~

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

~~Independent Claim #1:~~

~~00016. — What I claim as my invention is a subgarment (fabric shield) with its “Receptacle Rim” worn only at the time of sexual copulation, and therefore distinguished by its consumer purchase for intent of application; and the intent of application is established within the intent of manufacture of “Dermawear” (fabric shield) and its “Receptacle Rim.” A claim “within intent of manufacture” means applied use or intent of application by consumers for the sole purpose of protecting themselves against sexually transmitted diseases; hence, “Dermawear,” my claim of invention.~~

~~Independent Claim No. 2 (Currently amended): I claim in utility a specialized elastic hole which is cut out in the front of the Dermawear garment as an outlet for the male penile shaft and/or an opening for the female vaginal canal. The scientific name for the elastic hole in the medical garment of Dermawear is the “Receptacle Rim.” The elastic band of the receptacle rim fits comfortably around the circumference of the base of the penis and is used in conjunction with a condom as a 100 percent protection barrier against sexually transmitted diseases.~~

~~00017. — What I claim as my invention is “Dermawear’s” intent of application: “Dermawear” is not for the vanity of fashion as an intent of consumer application with respect to appearance, but it is protective wear.~~

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

~~Independent Claim No. 3 (Currently amended): I claim ownership of the intent and application of use of the Dermawear manufactured medical product for retail sale to persons buying additional protection for the genital region, which has not been afforded by condom use alone. I reaffirm and assert title to the fabric shield of Claim 1, and the "Receptacle Rim" of Claim 2, for which the whole Dermawear garment in utility will cover the skin of the genital region during sexual intercourse in order to defend against the following skin parasites: Phthirus Pubis (crabs), Human Papilloma Virus (warts), Haemophilus Ducreyi (chaneroid), Sarcoptes Scabiei (scabies), Plaques (Tinea, Syphilis), Herpes (Biofluid Hazard), Lesions (Biofluid Hazard), and any and all biofluids containing residue protein of R.N.A. — D.N.A. material that is capable of sticking to skin during naked sexual genital to genital contact. Dermawear will have a double butted (2 in 1) fabric shield with a fluid resistant material sown in between the garment for a redundant protection against skin pathogens of the genital region. Dermawear will also contain a loop defense shield which is a microscopic pubic hair simulation consisting of 100 percent cotton strands.~~

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

00018. ——— What I claim as my invention is “Dermawear’s” intent of application: “Dermawear” is not for the ordinary and common consumer use as a subgarment of comfort against the friction of surface apparel, but it is protective wear against sexually transmitted diseases.

No. 4 Dependent upon Claim No. 1 (Currently amended): Dermawear on its face is currently nonobvious but with the education of the consumer, Dermawear will eventually become distinct as a medical garment device that is used in conjunction with a condom to prevent and/or protect its user from sexually transmitted diseases of the genitals in left uncovered by a rubber prophylactic.

00019. ——— What I claim as my invention is: the nonobvious distinction of “Dermawear” is a tactical use against diseases and of the slim contrasting and/or set apart from the practical ordinary and obvious use of subgarments worn with a consumer intent of application (applied use) for comfort alone.